Discovery of backwards Earth rotation => Nobel Prize
Diameter of each optic cable apparently about 100 miles! On land, drop-shadow cable stacks reach far into outer space. Displays of space junk have same problem. Perhaps thinner lines reduce the massive exaggeration

Why not use your high profile to encourage and support people rather than be negative?

His is just an opinion - he doesn't own data viz. If he thinks he can do better, he should create something.

Are roadmaps also problematic? It's the same technique of exaggerating width in the interest of making the visualization readable.

Can't user mercator because of distortion. Can't use projections because of Edward Tufte.

@ZachBowders this may be your chance to finally get it if you say the right thing..

Also, sarcastic critique isn't helpful to anyone.

He also totally forgot about the clouds that would obscure our view of earth! Totally inaccurate. And where's the volcanic ash plume emerging from La Palma? Conveniently removed I see.
